THE RETAIL ENERGY SUPPLY ASSOCIATION WELCOMES TRIEAGLE ENERGY TO ITS MEMBERSHIP

Harrisburg, PA (January 31, 2011) – The Retail Energy Supply Association (RESA), a leading trade association of retail energy suppliers committed to the advocacy of vibrant and sustainable competitive residential and commercial energy markets, today announced the addition of TriEagle Energy to the Association’s membership. RESA now consists of 18 member companies who continue to serve natural gas and electricity customers -- residential, business, government and industrial – throughout the United States and around the world.

“We welcome TriEagle to our membership and look forward to their input as we address industry matters as a competitive retail energy market stakeholders organization,” said David Fein, President of RESA. “This is yet another member company fostering innovation, creating jobs and providing value-added products and services to customers in the United States.”

"At TriEagle, we strive to align ourselves with outstanding organizations with progressive and diverse members, and RESA fits the bill perfectly," said Rob Cantrell, TriEagle Senior Vice President of Sales and Chief Marketing Officer.

TriEagle Energy began its service in 2003, and is headquartered in The Woodlands, Texas. TriEagle serves residential, commercial and industrial customers in Texas and Pennsylvania and has aggressive plans to expand to other markets in the PJM territory.

"Our membership in RESA is a natural extension of our active involvement in numerous organizations and committees in our home market of Texas," added TriEagle Chief Operating Officer, Robert Case. “We hope to add our decades of energy experience to RESA's activities in our new markets.”
